Photo Silk Screen Workshop

3 SUNDAYS WITH WAYNE MONTECALVO
In this 3 day workshop participants learn how to prepare photographic images for silkscreen printing by exploring methods to change continuous tone photos into halftone black and white images. Students will expose several screens and create several exploratory prints using their photographic images.

Bring a computer with Photoshop installed. A basic understanding of Photoshop is sufficient.

Each student will need two screens and a few back up screens.

DAY 1 Demonstrate image preparation using Photoshop with the goal of students getting a good image onto film. Expose screens if time permits.

DAY 2 Continue exposing images onto screens. Everyone who is ready begins printing.

DAY 3 Continue printing. Everyone prints on this day.

WAYNE MONTECALVO is a multi-disciplinary artist. He received a BFA from the School of Visuals Arts and currently works out of his studio in Rosendale, NY. Wayne taught at SUNY New Paltz and teaches workshops for various art organizations throughout the tri-state area.
